

Fall 2022 Dual Credit Opportunity

3 Credit Online Class

Free of charge to qualified high school students in North Dakota

Who is eligible?

- North Dakota High School Junior or Senior Student
- Student must have Cumulative GPA of 3.0

Why is it free?

The Department of Public Instruction (DPI) will pay for each student wanting to take SPED 289. The application fee, books, and dual credit tuition will be paid. The State of North Dakota has a teacher shortage, and this dual credit course is designed to motivate juniors and seniors to consider the special education field.

Class Information

SPED 289: Foundations of Special Education is a 16-week, online asynchronous 3 credit course for Fall Semester of 2022 taught by Mayville State University faculty member, Dr. Carly Theis.

Is this the only class offered?

There will be a second course titled SPED 289A Foundations of Special Education Field Experience offered in the Spring Semester of 2023. This will be a two-credit course that will require students to complete at least 60 hours of field experience in a special education classroom.
