Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) Program

Pending Higher Learning Commission Approval August 2016

This completely online MAT program is designed for people who have a non-teaching bachelor's degree and are interested in entering the teaching profession. The MAT program offers flexibility and affordability for adult learners.

Purpose

Continued growth and service to North Dakota is a priority in the programs offered by Mayville State University. The Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) degree offered through Mayville State University is designed to assist persons with non-teaching bachelor's degrees to apply for teacher certification in a secondary content area while obtaining a master's degree. The addition of the Master of Arts in Teaching to Mayville State University's well-established teacher preparation programs will provide another option for entry-level professionals to begin teaching careers in North Dakota. Mayville State University is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and MSU's Educator Preparation Program is accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. Teacher Education has been a focus of Mayville State University's mission throughout the institution's 125 year history and the addition of the MAT program supports the tradition of serving North Dakota's workforce and K-12 schools. With the current shortage of teachers throughout North Dakota and nation-wide, the MAT degree is an option for many who may be interested in a possible career change into education.

The Program

The Master of Arts in Teaching degree program is a 32-credit, online program that provides options for graduates with bachelor's degrees to obtain a professional teaching degree while maintaining employment. The MAT program is standards-based to support secondary teacher certification requirements of the North Dakota Education Standards and Practices Board (ESPB) and is designed to support the development of teacher-leaders.

Adding Qualified Teachers to the Workforce

That is the goal of MSU's MAT program. The ND Department of Commerce has acknowledged pre-school, elementary, middle school and secondary teacher shortages across the state. We're here to help get people interested in a teaching career into the classroom!

The Master of Arts in Teaching program supports two types of learners interested in teaching. The first are those who already have an Alternative Access license, are employed by a school district and need to gain the credentials through online course programming to apply for full teacher licensure in ND. The second group of learners are those who will complete MAT program courses followed by a Teaching Mentorship Clinical Experience prior to seeking licensure. The MAT program provides grounded study on teaching, learning and leadership to support the successful MAT graduate in today's workforce.
