

STUDY ABROAD PROGRAM

www.americancollege.no

Summer School for 2019 begins on May 22 and ends June 15.

Summer school at ACN is a unique classroom experience. Every summer, we focus on two important global issues: human rights and environmental issues. This year is no exception! Instructors from the University of North Dakota will lead students on a 4-week journey as they explore these important and relevant topics both in and out of the classroom. Classroom discussions are a major part of our summer program and the classes consist typically of 50% American and 50% Norwegian students.

During our summer session, students have the opportunity to earn up to six credits in small, interactive classes. Summer school at ACN is a unique experience both in and out of the classroom with exciting field trips. Additionally, classes are scheduled Monday through Thursday leaving a three-day weekend where students can explore Norway and the rest of Europe!

Need more reasons to join us for Summer 2019?

- Earn up to 6 credits in 4 weeks
- Small, interactive classes
- Exciting field trips in Oslo and Østfold
- Inexpensive per credit price
- Modern apartment-style dorms

| | 1 course | 2 courses | Other costs: |
|------------------------------|-----------------|-----------------|---|
| Tuition | $ 1,200 | $ 2,200 | • $50 application fee |
| Rent, electricity & internet | $ 1,000 | $ 1,000 | • cost of travel to Norway |
| Field trips & Fees | $ 300 | $ 300 | • food expenses |
| Refundable housing deposit | $ 120 | $ 120 | • study abroad insurance (estimated $250 USD) |
| Total | $ 2,520 | $ 3,520 | |

Total cost is paid directly to the American College of Norway. Invoice and payment information will be sent to all admitted students. Housing deposit is returned to students upon successful check-out.

Final cost figures will be distributed once determined.

Summer application must be submitted by March 1st.

Submit to:

Sarah K. Anderson

sarah.anderson2@mayvillestate.edu.

American College of Norway

Courses, Summer 2019

May 22nd – June 15th

HON 391: Colloquium in the Sciences: Environmental Challenges of the 21st Century

This course is designed primarily for non-science majors with an interest in the relationship between humans and our environment. We will spend time during this course on building your fundamental knowledge of science and nature and will explore controversial issues such as global climate change, genetically modified foods, water scarcity, energy demands, environmental pollutants and the efforts being made to combat these problems and create sustainable living situations. During the course, we will compare the U.S. and Norway and will visit areas of Oslo to study some of its sustainability practices. A train pass and venue fees will be covered for all students.

HUM 300: Oslo: Vikings to Hipsters

The city we now call Oslo has been an important and vibrant place since the time of the Vikings (800-1050 A.D.). From that ancient period on, Oslo has provided defense with its 700 year old fortress, engaged in commerce and the arts, and was the center of international struggle as countries like Denmark, Sweden, and Germany tried to control it. From its struggles for independence to the Nazi occupation of WWII, Oslo has played a key role in Norway's development. Now a beautiful, global city with one of the largest art galleries in the world, Oslo prides itself on its sustainable practices, its modern outlook, and its vibrant, hipster neighborhoods. In this class, we will study all aspects of Oslo's development, making weekly trips to the city to gain first-hand knowledge of Vikings, Nazis, immigrants, and hipsters. Class discussion, presentations, and some brief writing assignments will be required. A train pass and museum fees will be covered for all students.

MOSS, NORWAY

Moss, Norway is a charming, friendly coastal town with all the benefits of a large city, but with a small town feel. Moss is only 40 minutes away from Oslo, Norway's capital. From the train station in Moss, you can easily connect to cities throughout Norway, Sweden and beyond. With airports located just north and west of Moss, the rest of Europe is at your fingertips. Travel is encouraged, so take advantage of your three-day weekends to get out and explore!

For more information, visit
www.americancollege.no